Overview

Confidence in speaking shapes success, from classroom participation to job interviews and career growth. Yet, through continuous engagement with thousands of learners across campuses, we observed a consistent gap: students lacked frequent English speaking opportunities, objective feedback, and visibility into their improvement.

Built on insights drawn from the learning journeys, feedback, and usage patterns of 25,000+ students within the NxtWave ecosystem, NxtTalk was designed alongside the student experience, not separate from it.

NxtTalk provides a guided, judgment-free space where students can practice spoken English, receive real-time feedback, and track measurable progress. By embedding speaking practice directly into their learning journey, it helps confidence grow step by step consistently, not occasionally.

The Challenge

Many students want to speak confidently but face common barriers

- Limited speaking practice outside structured environments
- Uncertainty about pronunciation, fluency and clarity
- Lack of structured practice aligned with learning context
- No clear way to measure communication improvement
- Anxiety around interviews, presentations, and peer interactions

Traditional methods rely heavily on manual evaluation, making consistent, scalable, and objective feedback difficult to deliver.
